

Two Torrance Girls Chapel to Open 'The Taming of the Shrew'

Win Talent Contest

Two Torrance girls have won top honors in the South Bay Exchange Club's annual "Search for Talent" contest and will represent the club in District 4 finals Friday in Inglewood.

Shella Kicuchi, 12, of 21032 S. Delores St., was named winner of the junior division. She is a dancer. Miss Emily Karr, a 16-year-old South High student of 5507 Calle de Arboles, was selected as the winner in the senior division. She is a classical violinist.

Division 4 finals in the statewide contest will be held at Crozier Junior High School in Inglewood beginning at 7 p.m. Friday. Winners will compete in the state competition June 22 in Fresno.

Other trophy winners in the junior division were Vicki Guzowski of Torrance and Susan Thompson of Wilmington, dancers; Laurie Sanders of Lawndale, ballet dancer;

William Shakespeare's comedy "The Taming of the Shrew" will open Friday evening for a five-week run at Chapel Theatre, 4164 W. Pacific Coast Hwy.

Roger Elliott, winner of Chapel's best actor award for his work in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?", will direct the production, which features a cast of 18 characters.

Leading roles of Petruchio and Kate will be enacted by Louis Bruhnke of Redondo Beach and Kathleen (Pat) Rogart of Torrance. Bruhnke was named best director of "Virginia Woolf."

Pamela Deckert of Torrance will play the role of a hostess and widow. Others in the cast include Terry Collier as Lucencio, Ken Strong as a Lord, Carolyn Stock as Blanca, John Kurtz as Sly and Vicentio, and Crockett Benson as Gremio.

Completing the cast are David Calkins is produced and stage manager for the production and sets were designed by Phyllis Palmer. Mable Monteleone created the costumes.

Reservations for the five-weekend run may be made by contacting the Chapel Theatre box office. Curtain is 8:30 p.m.

Youngsters To Graduate

Dressed in traditional caps and gowns, 85 pre-school children will receive diplomas during graduation ceremonies Sunday at 3 p.m. at St. James Catholic Church, Redondo Beach.

The children will present a program of religious songs and prayers for their parents and guests. This will be the culmination of three years of classes stressing the basic knowledge of their faith.

This will be the sixth graduating class since 1961.

San Pedro Man Heads Jaycees

Edmund Guerrero, a San Pedro businessman, has been elected governor of District 12 of the California Jaycees. Tom Norcio of Lomita was elected secretary-treasurer of the district.

As governor, Guerrero will work with local Jaycees in Culver City, El Segundo, Gardena, Hawthorne, Inglewood, Lomita, Manhattan Beach, Redondo Beach, San Pedro, Palos Verdes, Torrance, Wilmington, Westchester, and Southside Los Angeles.

A former president of the San Pedro Jaycees, Guerrero joined the organization in 1959 and has served as a director and treasurer. He also has served as state director.

A MEMBER of the board of directors of the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce, he also is a director of the South Bay-Harbor Volunteer Bureau and a member of the San Pedro Elks Club. Guerrero holds an associate in arts degree from Harbor College and currently is working on a bachelor's degree in marketing at California State College in Long Beach.

The owner of Mundo's Mexico Specialties, he has received the Jaycee of the Month Award and the Spark Plug awards of the San Pedro Jaycees, and was named outstanding state director in 1965-66.

Officers will be installed June 9 during a banquet at the Indian Village Restaurant.

Area Girl Wins Third In Tourney

Beverly Kelly of El Camino College has won third place in women's oral interpretation at the National Phi Rho Pi Speech Tournament hosted by Modesto College.

Miss Kelly's program of readings was based on the theme of the death through the eyes of little children. Her readings included excerpts from novels by Ray Bradbury and James Agee dealing with the first experience a child has with the reality of death.

She won a first place in the Phi Rho Pi state competition at Southwestern College in April.

Jean Billings and Vicki Ropp of the El Camino speech squad made the final round of women's expository speaking.

Members of the team who received certificates and thus entered the semi-final rounds at the national contest were Bill Brown and Tom Rapp in men's oratory, Judy Hulsej in women's expository speaking, and Tim Plax in impromptu speaking.
